

wavering political principles. In this assertion we think the editor of the Sentinel has hit nearer the truth than he usually does. We are not aware that Mr. Burgess ever possessed any fixed political principles and for this reason it may be truly said of him that he is fixed and unchanging. Some ten years ago he came out, merely as a citizen, under the National Republican banner. How long he kept his post and clung to his banner we do not know; however he was not missed when he deserted the party.

In conclusion will you ask the Sentinel when it was that Lyman Burgess represented the town of Milton in the assembly of Vermont? Now, had it been the truth, that Lyman Burgess had ever represented the farmers of Milton, it would have been the "unkindest cut of all" at this day, to accuse us of it. It would have been an act in our proceedings such as we should have wished the famed expunging resolution forever to have blotted from our records and our memories. But Mr. Stacy, the assertion is not true. Lyman Burgess never did represent this town in the Vermont Legislature, and unless some great mistake is made never will represent.

THE FARMERS OF MILTON.

HENRY CLAY.

Hail to the Statesman great and wise!
The Patriot true and bold!
Where'er our trophied Eagle flies,
His name with pride is told;
From Maine's dark pine, and crags of snow,
To where magnolias breathe their flow,
O'er rich Florida's bowers,
From hilly dale to prairie West,
We hail him as our champion—
Rejoice in him our hearts.

Tailor, when the tempest o'er us hung,
And roared destruction's war,
Like light from darkness forth he sprung,
To guide us and to save;
In the fierce flashings of the storm
We saw his proud undaunted form
Upon the quivering deck,
As, with his eye on Union's star,
By his unswerving arm, afar
We shoo'd the threatening wreck.

His heart has beat in sympathy
Where'er, throughout the world,
The yoked have fought for liberty
With freedom's flag unfurled.
Say, Greece! when nations saw you bleed,
Who, trumpet-tongued, proclaimed your need?
And climes of Andes, say!
That trempled hush with answering shout,
And those stern summits thunder out,
The name of HENRY CLAY.

A soul, where patriot love intense
And frankest feelings dwell,
A spirit undimmed by time
A courage naught can quell;
No paltry limits bound his fame,
An Empire's scatter'd myriads claim
On mountains wild and lone,
In the thronged city's busy streets,
In the green forest's calm retreats,
His glory as their own.

What though detection has essay'd
To cloud his noble brow,
Down from the height himself has made
He smiles upon it now.
The oak, while growing, may be stir'd
By the light touch of lance and sword,
To buck each insect sting;
Matured—though whirlwinds sweep the sky,
It lifts, unbow'd its head on high
In conscious strength sublime.

Welcome his way—his steps beneath
Let proud green weeds be spread;
Oh! how our grateful greetings wreath
Would lighten on his head!
Familiar as a household word,
In after ages will be heard—
(When ours has passed away)—
A theme for song in happy hours,
A trumpet blast when danger lowers,
The name of HENRY CLAY.

ALBANY, August 17th, 1839. A. B. S.

When THOMAS JEFFERSON visited his friends in Virginia, from whom he had long been separated, in discharging his high duties at Washington, he went on horse-back, rarely attended, except by a friend or acquaintance, and a faithful servant. He paid his own bills.

When JOHN QUINCY ADAMS, during his Presidency, visited his friends in Massachusetts, he went on board stages and steamboats, like other private citizens, unattended by any retinue, not even by a servant. He paid his own bills.

When ANDREW JACKSON, the much vaunted chief of democracy, came in, the forms and ceremonies of prerogative began to influence his intercourse with the world. If he travelled, he had a troop of retainers wherever he went—and the populace were trained to follow and shout at the heels of the chieftain—and the people paid the expense.

And when MARTIN VAN BUREN visits his neighbors in his native State, he seeks to imitate the pomp and pageantry of a royal personage—and goes about bowing and scraping to the people, whose interests he has betrayed, and with whom he has no fellow feelings—and the people have to foot the bills.—N. SCENE AT HOWARD'S Cheap Cash Store

Merchant.—Good morning.
Customer.—How do do.
M.—Well, very well, thank you.
C.—Fine weather.
M.—Beautiful charming most delightful good for crops.

C.—Yes just about right for us Farmers and good for you too, I see you have a plenty of goods yet.

M.—Farming is a happy noble independent employment in which we are all interested as being the ground principal of every other occupation. You say I have a plenty of goods, I have an excellent assortment.

C.—Sell as cheap as ever I suppose.

M.—Just now a little cheaper.

C.—Why so?

M.—The wool and dairy bring good prices and trade is brisk.

C.—Does that make a difference.

M.—Yes, can always sell cheap where a good deal is sold.

C.—Then you can sell as cheap as anybody.

M.—Thank you sir, that is just what I like, always up and doing, ready to anticipate and supply the wants of customers, and as I am just off for New York again, like to look over the goods to see what may be wanting, and at such times sell a little cheaper than usual.

C.—I have come in a good time then, I meant to have been here at commencement but was so much engaged, I could not leave home.

M.—Oh there never was such a good time as we had here at commencement. The town was filled and literally thronged.

C.—Yes, one of my neighbors were here and told me so, and my Son said your Store was a great attraction the night before.

M.—I come in for my full share, in decorating with the emblems of the Green Mountain State, and illuminated for which the long loud and hearty cheers of the Cavalcade, in honor of the Hon. Henry Clay to his quarters, resounded for the respect shown, and probably the long tried consistent course pursued by the Cheap cash STORE, which resulted in an overflowing trade from the vast multitude the next day.

C.—I rejoice you had so good a time, it would have given me pleasure to have been here, there must have been a great many people in town, I hear everything well spoken of that transpired that day, I would like to have seen our great Western Orator and Statesman.

M.—Yes, Sir, all went on very well indeed, remarkably so, did any of your family come with you to-day?

C.—Yes, my Wife and Daughter came to trade a little, what do you want to sell me.

M.—A good piece of Broad Cloth, a Carpet, New Bonnet—Fine Shawl, Silk for a dress, or any other goods that you wish that I may have to sell.

C.—I see you have everything, and the articles named are just what we want, and will go and have Mrs.—and my Daughter come and if you can sell cheap will buy. You take bills I suppose?

M.—Ha, Ha, Ha, Yes, rather than sue you, all but Windsor.

C.—Ha, Ha, no charge for $400

M.—Good, not any, my Taxes are paid.

Rev. I. Coverts' BALM OF LIFE.

A NEW AND VALUABLE REMEDY for those who are afflicted with acute and chronic diseases of the Lungs and Windpipe. This medicine is suited to all climates and to persons of all ages and sexes, will keep for any length of time, and may be used with perfect safety by persons in the most feeble state of health, as it contains no ingredients that can impair the constitution under any circumstances.

It will be found greatly serviceable in all diseases of the Lungs and Windpipe, such as phthisis, asthma, whooping cough, croup, acute and chronic inflammation of the lungs and windpipe. By the dyspnoea, it has been used with decided advantage, and is serviceable to persons laboring under debility of any kind, if used according to the directions. To the consumptive, it has invariably afforded almost immediate relief, and in several instances has wrought a permanent cure. It is not, however, expected to effect a cure upon such cases as are in the last stages of the disease; but even to such, it will be found to give much relief, and greatly prolong that remnant of life which has become so nearly extinguished by the dread destroyer.

The subscriber having witnessed with pain the great destruction of the health and life of so many of his fellow beings by the above enumerated and their kindred diseases, has with much study, care and consultation, prepared his valuable medicine, which he is willing to submit to the most scrutinizing test of the medical faculty, and to rest its reputation upon their testimony, that it is superior to any thing yet discovered.

In confirmation of the above remarks, let the following certificates from highly respectable physicians bear testimony.

To all whom it may concern, This may certify that I have examined the Rev. Isaac Coverts' ingredients compounded under the name of the Balm of Life, and believe said compound is highly calculated to relieve persons of all ages and sexes afflicted with acute and chronic diseases of the lungs and windpipe, as indicated by coughs, difficult breathing and pains in different parts of the chest if administered under suitable circumstances and in appropriate doses.

Auburn, Aug. 31, 1839.

JOSEPH T. PRINCE, Physician & Surgeon.

To all whom it may concern, This may certify that I have examined Rev. I. Coverts' Balm of Life, and believe it to be one of the best medicines for coughs, consumptions, chronic inflammations of the lungs and windpipe, and most heartily recommend its use to all afflicted with those diseases. Fayetteville, Sept. 27, 1839. JOHN O. SHIFMAN, M.D.

This may certify that I have examined the component parts of Rev. I. Coverts' Balm of Life, and think it a valuable remedy for what it is recommended, and consider it perfectly safe and judicious in such cases.

Auburn, Aug. 31, 1839. N. WEAVER, M.D.

This may certify that the Rev. I. Coverts has exhibited to me the formula by which he prepares a medicine called the Balm of Life, a preparation well suited as an expectorant in coughs, consumptions, &c., and therefore would have no hesitation in recommending it as a safe and good medicine. Salina, July 12, 1839.

A. H. NEWCOMB, M.D. N. Y.

This may certify that I have examined Rev. I. Coverts' Balm of Life, and am of opinion that its combination and ingredients are suited to a great variety of chronic affections of the lungs and bronchia. Auburn, Aug. 31, 1839.

DOCT. E. HUMPHREYS.

This certifies that having examined the Rev. I. Coverts' Balm of Life in all its component parts, we do believe it to be one of the best compounds for coughs, consumptions, chronic inflammations, &c., of which we have any knowledge, and do most cordially recommend its use to all afflicted with the above named diseases. J. W. DANIELS, M.D. Salina.

W. J. LOVEJOY, M.D. Salina.

G. NEWBORN, M.D. Onondaga.

L. LAWRENCE, M.D. Baldwinsville.

This may certify that I have examined the Rev. I. Coverts' receipt for making his Balm of Life, and from my acquaintance with the influence of its several ingredients, should think it well calculated to give satisfaction in the diseases for which it is recommended.

Utica, June 21, 1839. WM. MORRIS, M.D.

I do hereby certify that I have examined the formula of the Balm of Life, and view it as a medicine well calculated for the relief of Chronic Coughs and Catarrhal affections.

Albany, June 24, 1839. JOHN WILSON, M.D.

I have examined the formula of the Rev. I. Coverts' Balm of Life, and approve of its composition. As an expectorant it is calculated to be efficacious in Chronic diseases of the Bronchia, and also in indigestion.

New York City, July 1, 1839.

SR KIRBY, M.D.

This may certify that I have examined the formula of the Rev. I. Coverts' Balm, &c. and view it as an expectorant, well calculated for Coughs, Chronic affections of the Lungs and Windpipe, and as a safe and useful remedy. Albany, 25th June, 1839.

C. D. TOWNSEND, M.D.

I have examined a receipt for a compound called the Balm of Life, in the hands of Rev. I. Covert, and have to state, that I consider it a safe and useful combination of medicine, calculated to be very beneficial in Chronic diseases of the Lungs and Air passages.

Troy, June 27, 1839. AVERY J. SKILTON, Physician & Surgeon.

I fully concur in the above recommendation. T. S. BARRETT, Phys. & Surgeon, N. Y. City.

We certify that we have examined the receipt for preparing the Rev. I. Coverts' Balm of Life, and believe it to be a safe and judicious combination, well calculated to relieve the complaints for which it is recommended.

Troy, N. Y. A. & L. STREETER, M.D.

This may certify that I have examined a receipt presented to me by I. Covert.

It appears to be well calculated to relieve irritation of the bronchial cells and affections of the Lungs and pleura and all Chronic diseases of the Chest. As an expectorant it might with propriety be prescribed in most cases where an article of that kind was indicated.

HAIR—HAIR. BALDNESS.

Important Discovery. THE GREAT MYSTERY FOUND OUT AT LAST.

DR. STERRY'S HAIR REGENERATOR

to the important subject of preserving the human hair, has, after many experiments, chemical and physical, been able to discover an article, which is now offered with the greatest confidence for the toilet, as the best thing ever discovered, from its softening and penetrating quality, to produce a good head of hair—to prevent it from falling off when baldness is apprehended—to restore it when baldness has taken place, and to prevent it from turning gray. It is more nourishing than pomatum, antique oil, or cologne water. It is a beautiful article for ladies' curls—it makes the hair soft and lively, and produces uncommon brilliancy. Thousands have tested its superior virtues and excellence, and in every instance it stands unrivalled. It is an infallible cure in all affections of the skin on the head—such as dandruff, &c. Every family should be supplied with a bottle of this oil, that by its application to the head and hair of their children, the beautiful and ornamental appendage of a fine head of hair, which nature has supplied us, may be preserved. From the numerous certificates and recommendations received of its salutary influence, the Doctor feels firmly persuaded he has succeeded in producing an article which will meet the desired wishes and approbation of the public.

INCORPORABLE TOOTH PREPARATION!

THE Utopian dreams of the alchemist are realized, and a remedy discovered for the TOOTHACHE, and preserving those important and beautiful appendages of the human system, by the use of the MAGNETIC ODONTIC, which by its attractive, purifying and strengthening qualities, removes all extraneous substances from the teeth, and preserves them in their natural brilliancy, and the gums in soundness and beauty. It is ascertained from experience, that when used, the teeth will never decay, but remain till the latest age of man, with their natural wear. When they are decayed, its progress will be arrested, and the teeth preserved and prevented from aching. All this has been done in a multitude of instances; and (more in thousands of cases, nervous toothache (that climax of pain) has at once been effectually cured by the use of this most popular dentifrice in America. And the public, so far as they have become acquainted with the merits of this tooth powder, have made use of it—as we have sold, within a short time, about 20,000 boxes of the Odontica. And, in conclusion, where and who is the young lady or gentleman, eye, the individual that values a beautiful set of teeth, sound gums, and a sweet breath, more than fifty cents, that will be longer destitute of a box of Dr. M. Hitchcock's incomparable Magnetic Odontica?
